

Our Town

By J. B. White

Did you know that there is a scourge in the United States that this year has been taking the life of one man, woman or child every fifteen minutes? Just think about this terrible thing—four persons in this fair land of ours die every hour from this cause and, to our shame, very little is being done to wipe this plague from the face of the earth!

It's a plague that reaches its long, icy fingers into every state, county and community. It could be eradicated but, somehow, we don't seem to care much whether it is or not. What is this thing? It's the terrific toll taken by automobile accidents.

Several months ago we called the attention of the citizens of Milam county to the fact that if the trend in automobile accidents continued, 1934 would exceed all records in the number of deaths from this cause. This prediction is about to come true.

According to statistics compiled for the Travelers Insurance Company, of Hartford, Conn., covering the first ten months of this year, approximately 28,400 citizens of the United States have lost their lives from automobile accidents, and 740,000 have been injured, some probably permanently. This is an increase of 16 per cent over 1933 and if the gain continues, more than 36,000 persons will be dead by January 1st because of such accidents.

If we go into these statistics in more detail, we find that 48 per cent of all the persons killed in street and highway accidents were pedestrians. Collisions of automobiles with automobiles accounted for 23 per cent of the fatalities, and collisions of automobiles with street cars, fixed objects and bicycles accounted for 12 per cent of the deaths.

During the first ten months of this year, only eight states showed a decrease from the figures of 1933. These included Delaware, Connecticut, Maine, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, South Dakota and West Virginia. Those states showing the greatest percentage of increases in accidents were, Mississippi, with 81.34 per cent increase; Montana, 64.44; Wyoming, 59.62; and Washington state with 53.95.

That alcohol is an important factor in this increase in fatalities is shown by the fact that of the total number of drivers involved in the 600,000 reported a gain of almost 24 per cent in the number who were declared intoxicated was noted. Out of the total number of pedestrians involved in these accidents, it was shown that there was an increase of 55 per cent who were declared intoxicated.

It might be pointed out that the above figures refer only to those who were "intoxicated," and not to those driving "under the influence of liquor." What that figure is, would probably be astounding.

Just what are we going to do about this plague that is afflicting this commonwealth? Are we going to sit idly by and watch the number grow, or will we take immediate steps to curb this toll that is snuffing out the lives of thousands of our citizens?

Shall we insist that state and local traffic laws be more rigorously enforced, that the licensing of drivers be made stricter and that those guilty of violations of existing laws be punished in proportion to their offense? We believe that everything possible and within reason should be done to make our highways safe for everyone.

Our Santa Claus

The American Santa Claus is a corruption of the Dutch Santa Nicholas, G. H. McHughes says: "Santa Claus the name derived from St. Nicholas thru the familiar use of children in Teutonic countries, crossed to America. The direct route followed by him is somewhat open to question. On the way he traded his gray horse for a reindeer and made changes in his appearance."

SANTA CLAUS GETS BIG HAND IN CITY

Santa Claus came to Cameron Wednesday on schedule time.

He was greeted by the largest crowd ever seen in Cameron. It was estimated that more than 5000 children greeted him. In addition some 5000 grown ups were in the city.

The reception and entertainment success is a deserved tribute to W. D. Paden, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, who directed the negotiations for the visit of Santa.

The crowd was orderly. No child was injured and there were no accidents of any kind.

From the surrounding communities delegations came. The only disappointing feature of the program was the failure of many children to receive candy and gifts that were promised. The crowd was so dense that distribution was difficult.

Santa arrived at 4 o'clock and was led through the streets by the Cameron Municipal Band. He rode on a snow covered float with a bevy of companions from the northlands.

Nothing in the history of the city has attracted so general an interest. Santa Claus told Secretary Paden he believed there were ten thousand children in Cameron and the largest gathering he had seen.

Food Buyers Have Advantages During McLane's Big Sale

Food buyers will find holiday advantages at McLane & McLane's greater than opportunities in recent months. A special effort on the part of the store to serve the buyers during the next two weeks is being made.

In this issue will be found a large display quoting prices and setting out advantages to be had by trading at this big store on Main Street.

This store has always made food buying attractive in Cameron and in this sale greater opportunities are offered.

Deceased was born in Germany coming to the States 52 years ago and settled in the Bushdale community where he followed farming. He was well and favorably known to a large circle of friends.

He is survived by a son, William Hirt, a daughter, Miss Ida Hirt, two grandchildren and a number of great grand children.

$50,000 IN DIVIDEND CHECKS RECEIVED HERE

Dividends in the sum of approximately $50,000 have been allotted to farmers in Milam county who have patronized the Texas Cotton Co-operative Association.

James M. Tongate, local manager for the company, was called to Dallas last week and given these checks for distribution among farmers. They are in small amounts indicating the wide patronage given the association.

The money is paid on profits made by sale of cotton at a profit over the market price. There were 600 checks. Mr. Tongate says the local office has had a wide patronage among farmers.

Llano Reader In Comment About Yoemen Chances

Llano, Texas, November 30, 1934.

Mr. J. B. White, Cameron, Texas.

Dear Sir:

I noticed in the Cameron Herald that if Cameron defeats Smithville in the Bi-District Game they will probably play Mason. I would like to correct you on this matter. As Mason did not win our district, this district was won by Fredericksburg. I am a former student of Cameron school, have played stick-horse with Gus Evans, and I wish your team success against Smithville. The coaches of our district picked a district team Wednesday. They hope that our district team can play a game with a picked district team of your district Christmas. If this game is played we shall see whether boys from Central Texas are better football players than those from "Out where the West begins."

Yours truly,

Graham Tyson, Captain of Llano High Yellow Jackets, 1934.

Medal Award Made To Pauline Joyce Smith, Gay Hill

Pauline Joyce Smith, three year old granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Doss of Gay Hill, has been given a gold medal in a recent recognition by Sears & Roebuck. The medal comes to her because of her beauty and intelligence, having won over a large number of entrants.

She was born and reared in the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Doss who are happy along with her mother, that Pauline Joyce has thus been honored. Mr. and Mrs. Doss were in Cameron Saturday and while here were visitors in the offices of the publisher.

THREE YEAR SENTENCE GIVEN VAN PERKINS

L. Van Perkins, former state commander for the American Legion, was sentenced to three years in federal prison at El Reno, Oklahoma and fined $100 for forgery in connection with the cashing of war veteran checks.

He was found guilty by a jury in federal district court at Waco, Judge Boynton sentenced the former Legion head Tuesday.

Perkins was former principal of the high school here and athletic coach. During recent years he has been active in Legion work and looking after claims of veterans against the government. He was found guilty on 12 counts. The court was lenient in passing sentence.

Indicted also are Frank Walzel and J. C. Tucker, both Legion members in Cameron. Their cases are due to come up later.

GAUSE MAN BEATEN AND ROBBED TUESDAY

Believed to have been attacked and robbed Tuesday afternoon while on his way to Cameron with a load of corn Bert Williams of Gause, is in a serious condition here from wounds about the head.

Mr. Williams said that the attack occurred about 3:30 p. m. He is believed, according to Sheriff Blaylock to have had money on his person. His attacker mounted the wagon while it was moving and Williams was found later by a salesman traveling the highway.

While Mr. Williams was in a serious condition he will recover, it is believed.

University Men To Lecture Here 13th

Dr. Frederick Eby and Dr. Holson Gray of the University will lecture at the Yoe High School auditorium Thursday night December 13. They come to the city under the auspices of the Parent-Teacher Association and E. A. Perrin, superintendent of schools.

Yoemen Win

Yoemen defeated Bartlett 20 to 7 in a practice game Wednesday night in Cameron.

Coach Wood after the second quarter sent in his second string men. Bartlett scored a touchdown and kicked goal.

The game was arranged to keep the Yoemen fit for their Bi-District title game here Friday night against Smithville.

It was believed the Maroon had suffered nothing in the way of a let down and are expected to be strong against Smithville.

BI-DISTRICT TITLE GAME HERE FRIDAY

There was a dominant note of confidence and eagerness in Cameron's calm waiting for the football classic of the year when Yoemen meet Smithville Friday night at 7:30 o'clock in Cameron.

This game will decide the Bi-District title for the championship in District 25 and 26. Smithville won the conference in 26 and Cameron won the conference in 25.

Meeting with officials from Smithville school in Austin last week Coach Carrol Wood and Superintendent Perrin brought the game to Cameron when no agreement could be reached and a toss was called for by Smithville.

Cyrus Cottle, president of the athletic council, said the game had been called to start promptly at 7:30 and that the admission price would be 25c and 50c. No increase was made in the price. The schools will share the gate with winner taking 60 per cent and the loser 40.

Yoemen brought the district title to Cameron for the first time and no other county team has won the district. The Bi-District title is a preliminary to the regional game which is the final in Class B. Fredericksburg will be the team to play the winner of the Friday night game in Cameron.

Current comment on the strength of the Smithville team seems to give the invaders too much credit. Although a strong club the opposition was not as stiff as in District 25 where the Yoemen won with a two game loss.

Early in the season Smithville beat Austin 7 to 6. Their games have been won by wide margins, however. In their last three games the score was Smithville 26 and Hallettsville 7; Smithville 18 and Schulenberg 7; Smithville 27 and Bastrop 7. Smithville is undefeated this year but lost a total of 68 points. Her impressive scoring record gives a total of 225 points.

Yoemen's record was the lowest in the conference on points lost with only four touchdowns scored against them.

If Yoemen are successful the next game would be a much less exacting assignment, it was believed by all critics here.

ROGERS JURY MAY GET CASE LATE FRIDAY

Harry Rogers, 20 year old Rogers youth, charged with the murder of Garnet Beardon, also of Rogers in 1933, is on trial in District court.

Once convicted and given two years, Jack Lewis, former Criminal District Attorney, secured a reversal of the case. Mr. Lewis is assisted by Dewitt Bowmer of Temple.

Emory B. Camp, criminal district attorney, is directing the prosecution assisted by his father, E. A. Camp, well known attorney of Rockdale.

The case was expected to reach the jury late Friday. Taking testimony was resumed this morning when District Judge W. G. Gillis, opened court.

Rogers shot Beardon on a roadway in the western part of the county at night when a quarrel arose among young people going to a dance.

Yoemen Banquet Is Set For December 11

The banquet to be tendered football players, pep squad and the band announced for December 7, has been postponed until December 11. Tickets are now on sale and any member of the Athletic Council may be seen for tickets.

C. N. Green & Son Make Shopping In City Attractive

Make this a Furniture Christmas is the suggestion made by C. N. Green & Son store in Cameron.

Buying opportunities are made attractive at this big store for the holidays. Lower prices are being quoted and Mr. Green declares the savings are greater than have been possible in many months.

New stocks have been added in the furniture department and in the grocery department food buying was never more attractive than at this time, says Mr. Green.

During the holiday shopping season many advantages are to be had at this store.

Green & Boedeker In Xmas Bargain Sale This Week

Christmas shoppers have a strong bid for bargains as well as a wide selection of gifts at Green & Boedeker, the big store across from the postoffice.

In this issue will be found a large display advertisement quoting prices and setting out buying advantages at this store. The big sale will run until Christmas and additional quotations may be expected from this store in due time.

The hardware department of the store has been especially arranged and stocked for the holiday trade, while the food department takes on additional buying interest.

Walzel Says He Is Not On Trial; No Setting In Case

Frank Walzel requests correction of a published statement last week that he was on trial in federal court in connection with veterans claims.

The case against Mr. Walzel has not been called nor set for trial and he is indicted in only one case and that case is a joint charge against himself, L. Van Perkins and J. C. Tucker.

Mr. Walzel says the American Legion is in no way involved. This, however, has not been charged. All three men are Legion members and Mr. Perkins is a former state commander.

Publication of this statement that Mr. Walzel was on trial was made through erroneous information and The Herald is glad to make this explanation.

Letters to Santa Claus

Children are invited to write letters to Santa Claus and send them to the Cameron Herald for publication in the edition of December 20. Write and send them at once.

Here Is Texas News Photos and United Press 1934 All Southwest Conference Team

Coaches and sports writers throughout the Southwest Conference selected this team by ballot for Texas News Photos and the United Press, and it is the official 1934 team of these two news-gathering organizations. Rice, conference champion, placed four men on the team, Texas and Southern Methodist three each and Texas Christian two. Three members of the conference—Baylor, Texas A. and M. and Arkansas—failed to place a man on the first team, although each made several strong bids. Bill Wallace of Rice was the only man to receive unanimous choice for the first team, but his running mate, John McCauley, was right behind him, receiving all votes but one. No first team player received less than half the total votes cast for each position, in itself an indication that the 1934 team is one of outstanding ability. Wallace of Rice, Lester of T. C. U. and Wilson and Carter of S. M. U. have all made All-American first teams this year, a further indication of stellar material on this team. (Texas News Photos.)

A Country Doctor's Wife

—By—
Martha B. Thomas

Caddy lighted the fire in the fireplace. She switched on the Christmas lights for the tree. She pulled down the shades, and pushed the easy chair towards the fire. Halsey would be home any time now, cold and weary from his round of calls on sick people. This was their first Christmas eve together since they had been married.

Halsey had started out on his rounds at noon. At three he had telephoned to say he was obliged to abandon his car. The snow was too deep. He had borrowed a pair of snow shoes and a fur cap, and with bag in hand, was about to walk a road leading through the woods to a small shack where a sick woman lay waiting his ministrations. At Caddy's worried inquiries, he said it would take him a couple of hours. Then he had a three-mile walk further on the main turnpike, to a child suffering with a quizzical sore throat. After that he would retrace his steps, get his car, and drive home.

Caddy gazed into the flames. This country practice covered miles and miles. Halsey was conscientious. He never failed to reach his patients somehow, but he was tired and worn out. And Caddy herself was often lonely. Her plans for fun, for little parties at home, usually ended in trying to get someone to fill Halsey's place. She knew it would be like this. Halsey had warned her. She was sensible and patient. Yet tonight . . . Christmas eve, and Halsey's birthday. She sighed . . . she simply couldn't bear to have anything go wrong.

The telephone rang. "That you, Caddy? I'm stuck again. The drifts are so deep I can't walk through. I'm out of the wood road all safe, and within two miles of that sick child. But none of the farmers near here has a team of horses. I really need oxen to pull me through. It's tough going."

"Oh," breather Caddy, trying not to sound dismal.

"Caddy, I wonder," he hesitated. She could tell that he was tired by the drag in his voice. "If you could possibly get Lem Salter's team of oxen and drive here for me! I simply can't ask him to do it himself. He has a daughter home for the holidays and her family. It's Christmas."

Caddy could not speak. She knew what this meant. Hours of being out in the storm. Heaven only knew when they would get home. She glanced about the friendly, inviting room.

"Won't you darling . . . to help me out?"

Prize Winner

Athens, Texas, produces prize winners other than its famed basketball teams. Here is Kate Alice Leatherwood, one-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Leatherwood, who won first place in a recent baby contest in Texas, then went on to cop fifth honors in a national contest.

Then she remembered something her father had said to her on her wedding day:

"You will never be allowed to forget you are the wife of a country doctor. But I think he's worth it . . . if you are!"

So over the telephone she said, "All right. Stay where you are. Get warm and rested, and I'll be there by Shanghai Express!"

The tedious drive behind the oxen seemed endless. The snow sifted down inside her collar. It blinded her. She was not actually suffering, but she was pretty uncomfortable. On . . . and on . . . and on. The whirling curtains swept before her. The snow drifted across the broad backs of the patient beasts. They took their own way in their own plodding time. Caddy sat on a box wrapped round with a bear rug.

On and on . . . and on. Creak . . .

creak . . . the swaying of the beasts was like some grotesque, nightmarish rhythm. She almost fell asleep.

Then out of the whiteness ahead she heard a shout. "Hey . . . bless your heart, darling!" And Halsey jumped aboard.

The child was very sick. The throat had to be lanced. Caddy forgot her injured feelings. She helped capably. The mother, worn and harassed, thanked them both with tears in her eyes. And together they drank coffee beside a humble kitchen stove, and ate huge slices of thick, buttered bread. Not what Caddy had planned for Christmas eve, yet, curiously enough, it seemed better than the other. It had . . . she tried to figure it out—more strength and sinew to it.

She smiled at Halsey. "This is positively the best Christmas eve I ever spent in my life!" she whispered.

Behind a large buttered slice of bread he kissed her. "You are the perfect pattern for a country doctor's wife!" he whispered back.

G-3 Users Report 43% is Too Modest —They're Getting More Extra Non-Skid Mileage Than That—But We Prefer to Be Conservative.

Yes, there's quite an uproar over our G-3 advertising. People who got the first G-3's put out—months before the public announcement—say "you're pulling your punch"—cite mileage records to prove 43% more non-skid life is an understatement. Very likely it is low—very likely the G-3 does do better—but, by speeding up to 50, jamming on brakes, every few miles day and night, in harder driving than most people do, the Goodyear test fleet established the average of 43% greater non-skid wear—and we'll stick to that figure because: That much extra safety at no extra cost is plenty to offer. If you have yet to see this amazing new Goodyear All-Weather, don't wait longer—come in today.

The Christmas Party

By Martha Banning Thomas

"If this isn't bad luck. Here I'm all packed and ready to go to Ridgfield . . . and I can't even get my car out of the garage!" Rudy gazed gloomily out of the window.

His mother gazed at Rudy. "I know, dear. I'm awfully sorry. But I don't think even trolly cars or trains will run after this blizzard. Perhaps none will go to the party."

"That doesn't help along my Christmas spirit any," replied her son. "It was to be a grand party. That Sally Sims . . . you know, the girl with the hair I told you about . . . was told to be there. It makes me boil."

His mother waited a moment or so. "Why not work off steam shoveling the walk? You can help out the janitor. He's got more than he can handle."

"A fine substitute! Really, mother, sometimes it doesn't seem as if you appreciate how I feel. It's awful. Looked forward for weeks to this thing." He went on grumbling.

Without saying more, Rudy slammed out of the door. Soon his mother looked down from the third floor to see him half buried in a drift by the entrance. He had borrowed a shovel from the janitor, and began working like a rotary plow. The snow fairly swirled away from him; he became a figure dimly seen in the midst of whirling flakes. "Good for him," smiled his mother; "I'm sorry he's disappointed, though."

She went about her usual preparations for Christmas, which was next day. Rudy and she lived alone in a small apartment and she sometimes felt smothered and lonely and disheartened. It was not the way in which she had lived before. Rudy's mother liked space; she hated crowded, dirty districts. However, she said nothing of this to her son. It was necessary, and she made the best of it.

After an hour or so she heard a noisy, laughing scrambling up the stairs. The door burst open. Rudy stood there, red-cheeked, covered with snow, his eyes full of eager pleasure. Beside him was some one else. A slim figure with glorious hair like a cloud coming out from a small knitted cap. She was lovely with her high color and fresh outdoor beauty.

"Mother, this is Sally Sims! Would you believe it, she is visiting an aunt in this same building! I'd never known it if I hadn't gone town to shovel. She saw me and came down to help. Isn't it wonderful? I've asked her to share our little tree with us . . . and tomorrow we're going sliding on the hill. It's simply grand . . . simply great!"

Sally agreed. They were both heard to remark that evening that they didn't think that party would be so much.

"It's never the party," laughed Rudy's mother. "It's the people who go to it—or stay away. What an awfully nice Christmas eve this has been."

Rudy grinned at Sally. Sally tossed her lovely hair. "The best ever," she said.

TEXAS HISTORY IN THE MAKING

Independence, the "Athens of Texas"

—Think—Talk—Write—Texas Centennial in 1936—
Independence, Texas, was once proudly proclaimed and undisputed as the Athens of Texas, because of its grace of culture and refinement, and strength of military and political leadership. Independence flourished for 41 years as the home of Baylor University and Baylor College. In 1886 both schools were moved, and with General Sam Houston gone, old Independence went into ruins. Above is what the visitor sees today—all that is left of the building which once housed the great institution of Baylor University. The Baptist church, attended by Houston, the grave of his wife and son, and the old Houston home stand nearby, but this once proud city is now a mass of ruins. (Texas News Photos.)

Aunt Martha's Christmas

By Alice B. Palmer

Memories of the long ago kept ringing like sleighbells in the ears of dear old Aunt Martha as she sat anlong in her favorite window seat by the side of some old-fashioned geraniums and pondered the fact of it being Christmas eve.

She looked outside beyond the icicles which hung like grim sentinels toward the snow-coated trees and heavy drifts heaped high by the way-side and she was reminded of the beautiful story of "Snowbound." But in that home there had been people—people and people, gentle and boisterous voices, everywhere.

"This will never do," suddenly spoke Martha Graham, rousing herself and trying to shake off the haunting memories. "I must prepare for a joyous, Merry Christmas just as if those people were really here."

With a spirit of youthfulness beyond ordinary endurance, Aunt Martha dashed kitchenward, every fibre of her being enriched by the Christmas spirit. The next moment she was busily engaged in preparation of all the holiday delicacies which she thought these people would like.

Soon delicious odors of sizzling doughnuts and soft sour milk cookies, such as only Aunt Martha could make, were in evidence.

When all was completed, together with a pitcher of steaming hot chocolate, Aunt Martha sat down and realized that there were no people to partake of her carefully prepared delicacies.

With a start, she realized that she heard voices, real voices, not visionary ones, but loud wild shouts coming from without. She could scarcely see through the blinding snowstorm.

Now she actually heard footsteps. "It must be true!" thought Aunt Martha, as she threw open the door. Sure enough there they were her imaginary "Snowbound" people for whom she had been preparing the Yuletide feast.

"Twas the joyous carol singers.

They had become lost in the snow-storm and were almost frozen.

"Come in! Come in!" cried dear old Aunt Martha.

Then followed such a Christmas welcome and greeting as they had never received before. Aunt Martha, their hostess, sat at the head of the table smiling and beaming, passing her Christmas goodies and pouring out the steaming hot chocolate. She secretly rejoiced as she accepted the carol singers as an answer to her loving thought of service on Christmas eve.

Louisa's Letter

Dear Louisa:

I have a very good friend—a young man who makes the same salary that I make. We enjoy going places together—dances, movies and restaurants—but I always pay my share. We go fifty-fifty in everything. We are not in love but he enjoys having a companion who dresses and dances well, and I am delighted to have a nice looking escort.

My mother thinks this arrangement a terrible one. She says that I should have more pride than to pay a man to take me places and that if the man had any character he would not accept the money. Now, it is not the money that mother objects to, for she wants me to have a good time, but she says it is the principle of the thing.

Do you think I am a shameless creature?

DORA M.

Mass.

Answer:—Personally, I think you and the young man have worked out a fine plan. As I understand it, your friend could not afford to take you out very often if he had to foot the bill, while if you pay your share you get to go twice as many places. Another thing you say, you are not in love and that also works well for your arrangement. I say this, because when a man is in love with a girl he usually wants to buy things for her and he has a little resentment in his heart if she is bearing her part of the bill. He may not acknowledge it but he likes to feel that he is the big hearted fellow who is responsible for the little girl in his care and that he is the source of all her joys and pleasures.

But you two are on a platonic basis and I see nothing whatsoever objectionable to your plan. In fact, if you were in love I should see nothing objectionable, if it suited you and the young man.

Your mother objects because she is of a generation which considered such an arrangement scandalous. But her generation also thought it was absolutely right and proper, as soon as the marriage was over, for the man to take possession of all of his wife's money or property and do with it as he wished without even asking her permission.

Times changes and customs which would be unthinkable twenty years ago are considered perfectly proper today.

Yours,
LOUISA.

TEXAS HISTORY IN THE MAKING

Dallas Before It Became "Big" Dallas

—Think—Talk—Write—Texas Centennial in 1934

All cities must have their beginnings and growing pains. Texas has an abundance of fine thriving cities—cities that have sprung up overnight, grown into the sky from flat plains; cities that have mushroomed between oil wells and along water fronts. Here is a picture of Dallas, made in 1874, one of the rarest in existence. Dallas was a wooden town with wooden sidewalks. The only stone building to be seen in this picture is the store of Mr. Lobenstein where hides, the wool and "peltries," whatever they are, were bought and sold. The population of Dallas at that time was about 7,000. Now greater Dallas boasts 300,000 inhabitants. All of Texas has grown proportionately in population during the last 60 years. (Texas News Photos.)

Framers Study Use of Fertilizer

Kinds and amounts of commercial fertilizer to use for vegetables and field crops on lands of the Marlow community was the subject for discussion at the Marlow evening school last Wednesday night, E. D. Parnell, teacher, reports. How and when to apply the fertilizer, dangers of using it, and methods of home mixing were also discussed. The 4-12-4, 5-15-5 and 6-18-6 are the best for field crops and 4-10-7, 6-10-7 and 4-8-6 were agreed upon as being best for vegetable and truck crops.

Nitrate of soda and sulphate of ammonia were suggested as being best for top dressing growing crops. Control of garden diseases will be the subject next considered at the Marlow school, it was stated.

Calvert Boy to Wed Daughter of Arthur Brisbane, Writer

Announcement of the approaching marriage of Reagan McCreary, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. McCreary and wife, Margaret Adou, daughter of J. Adou, early pioneer banker and financier of Calvert, comes as a pleasant surprise, since young McCreary is well known in Milam county, and has many friends in Cameron.

The announcement was made by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Brisbane, announcing the bride to be their daughter, Miss Sarah Brisbane.

All readers are familiar with the history of Arthur Brisbane, father of the bride to be, distinguished as an editorial writer, who began his newspaper work in 1883 as a reporter for the New York Sun. Later he was London Correspondent for the Sun and later was editor for the Evening Sun.

Miss Brisbane is said to be very intellectual and gives promise of following in the footsteps of her noted father.

Young McCreary is a graduate of Calvert high school and later graduated from Phillip-Exeter, and in 1932 received his degree from Yale. For the past year McCreary has been on the staff of the Literary Digest. Date of the wedding is to be given.

Home Demonstration Club Notes

A representation of the 4-H Club Girls in the Home Demonstration Council was voted at a recent meeting of the Council. This new regulation will allow the 4-H sponsors Conference chairman, Mrs. T. N. Wadsworth and Miss Imogene Moore, a representative, the privilege of attending the regular meeting of the county home demonstration council.

Principles of picture making were given by Charles Brady of B and B Studio to a group of 4-H Club Sponsors at their regular meeting November 28th. The purpose of this program was to train club leaders in the uses of various Kodaks and the making of better demonstration pictures for both indoor and outdoor projects.

"Seeing is believing," says Mrs. John Timmerman, clothing Cooperator of Bethlehem Club. "I can fit a foundation pattern better on the other person than I can for myself, because I have learned when a pattern fits," says Mrs. Timmerman. In addition to making her own patterns, she has directed the making of four other patterns within the last month.

"Only two months have passed since the Foundation Pattern School and 19 of the 20 members of our club have foundation patterns made," says Mrs. Otis Charles, wardrobe demonstrator for the Duncan Home Demonstration Club. The goal set for each demonstrator is to have patterns for each member of their club by January. Progress is being made with reports showing 102 patterns complete at present.

Congressmen Investigating Gas Waste

This picture was taken at the Cargray "stripping plant" near White Deer, Texas, when the Congressional Oil Inquiry Committee, headed by Congressman William P. Cole, Jr., of Maryland, visited the Panhandle of Texas to investigate the waste of natural gas in the Panhandle oil fields. Declaring Panhandle gas wastage is "staggering to the imagination," Secretary of Interior Harold Ickes told the A.P.I. convention in Dallas that this must stop. The two pipes in the picture above daily allow wastage of 200,000,000 cubic feet of natural gas, approximately twice the daily consumption of the entire State of Texas. From this gas approximately one-third of a gallon of gasoline is extracted per 1,000 feet. The men in the picture are the Congressional Committee and oil men. (Texas News Photos.)

WOMAN'S HEART STOPS
DOCTOR SAVES HER

Baltimore—When the heart of a woman patient stopped beating during an operation, a surgeon at the University Hospital thrust one hand under her diaphragm, exposed by the incision, and in breathless silence counted slowly as he compressed the heart rhythmically and kept the blood coursing through the veins of the unconscious woman. She soon resumed normal pulsation.

Father's Ingenuity

A Christmas Story

By Alice B. Palmer

'Twas just two weeks before Christmas and there did not appear to be any material means of attaining the necessary funds for the great celebration.

"Oh dear, if John would only sell that old heirloom," thought Marty. Just then Betty and Jerry came charging in from high school.

"Oh, mother, I just can't wait until Christmas. I know you are going to get that tuxedo for me. I can see it now, oh boy!" exclaimed Jerry.

"And I can see that party gown, Mother, with slippers to match," said Betty, sweetly.

"It's no use expecting anything this year, children," said mother. "Your father has made some unwise investments."

"Here comes father, now!" "Hello, everybody, what's up?" Why the frigid atmosphere?" queried father.

"Mother says there's to be no Santa Claus this year," ventured Jerry.

The next few days John Armstrong was trying to figure it all out. Perhaps he had been a little negligent in the past few years concerning his family. Now he realized that he must make amends. Christmas bells were chiming, reminding the Armstrong family that 'twas truly Christmas eve. Mother and children were thinking of the things they were not going to get for Christmas. But father was chuckling inwardly. In fact he could scarcely keep from bursting out laughing; but that, of course, would never do.

The silence was broken by the jingling of sleigh bells. They hurried en masse to see what it was about.

Were they dreaming? There stood and old-fashioned bobsled. Out stepped Santa Claus.

"Why, Uncle Joe, what are you doing here on Christmas eve?" exclaimed Mother, all excited.

"I've come to take you and the family for a ride. So bundle up and hop in, without delay."

All stared at one another and tried

Santa's Joined the
"Caterpillar Club"

By Earle Hooker Eaton

The motor car now goes so fast, That reindeer days are largely past, And airplanes swift may do the work Of Santa who will never shirk The job of giving girls and boys Their sleds and dolls and other toys; For Santa has a parachute, And "bails out" on the chimney route.

For just like "Lindy" he's no dub— He's joined the "Caterpillar Club!" If reindeer throw a shoe or two, And fail to get the cargo through; If motor cars blow out a tire, Or get all messed up in mire;

And Santa Claus is in despair, He merely flies up in the air, And if the airplane fails him too, He drops straight down the chimney flue, For just like "Lindy" he's no dub— He's joined the "Caterpillar Club!"

to speak, but not a word was uttered. They simply obeyed their Santa Claus and within a few moments Father and all were seated cozily in the fairyland contraption and were driven off.

The sleigh stopped with a jerk, right in front of a stucco bungalow all brilliantly lighted up with Christmas decorations.

"Why, I never knew the Thompson home was for rent. It has stood vacant so long," said mother, with great concern.

"A friend of mine from the office just purchased it," said Father, with a convincing smile.

"We were invited over to see it in its new regalia. But you were so all out of sorts that I called up Uncle Joe and ordered the Santa Claus ruse."

They all laughed most heartily. They couldn't help it—Christmas or no Christmas! They had to give father credit for his clever ingenuity.

Out they hopped, beaming with the Christmas spirit.

Father took the lead and rang the doorbell, but no one answered.
